Productivity Expert Shares Secrets At Power Networking Lunch

RALEIGH, N.C. – The clutter piles up, in your office, your home, your computer -- even your mind. Fall is a great time to declutter, but how do you start?

Barbara Hemphill, a professional organizer and bestselling author of the "Taming the Paper Tiger" series will share the secrets to peaceful productivity at a networking lunch event Oct. 8.

Barbara has a passion for helping people create and sustain a productive environment™, so everyone can accomplish their work and enjoy their lives. She will divulge details on proven techniques to manage time, space, and information to create what she calls "an intentional environment."

"Organizing is not always something you are born with," said Hemphill, who has been organizing for more than 30 years. "It is a skill that you can learn, and those who do find a huge weight falls from their shoulders."

Hemphill will speak to the Raleigh Women's Power Networking Coffee & Contacts group at 12:30 Oct. 8 at Brasa Steakhouse. <http://www.brasasteakhouse.com/>. The public is invited to attend.

"Our members are busy women, always looking for ideas on how to achieve more each day," said Jean Hedges, Director of Women's Power Networking. "We're excited to have such an experienced voice share her tips."

Tickets are limited and can be purchased at <http://wpnlunch100810hemphill.eventbrite.com>.
